This is Armored Patrol — a realistic battle simulation that slides you into the driver's seat of a massive T-36 tank that's bristling with firepower. Your orders are to locate and destroy enemy tanks and robots which are known to frequent this particular sector.

Your perspective is from the inside of your tank, looking out across a bleak, alien planetscape. Somewhere out among the deserted blockhouses (which are scattered throughout the area), enemy tanks are on the prowl. Frequently, they will be out in the open, but more often than not, they can be found hiding behind the blockhouses awaiting an opening in your defenses.

An enemy tank may be detected by one of two ways: (1) By visually sighting him on your viewing screen, or (2) By using the radar function which causes an arrow to "flash" in the direction of an enemy tank. The appearance of an enemy robot will result in an asterisk appearing in the center of your radar.

You are provided with 4 tanks for each game (graphically depicted on your screen), and an initial energy level of 20. Should this energy level fall to zero (as a result from encountering an "energy-draining" robot), you will lose one tank.

Points are accrued as follows:

TANK = 1000

ROBOT = 2000

An extra tank is awarded when the player reaches a score of 20,000 points.

Your tank is manipulated by the following keys:

FORWARD A ;

BACKWARD Z ;

RIGHT TURN A ;

PLASMA BURSTS SPACE BAR
